

Expert Technical Director to expand ACI Portland Branch's growth

We are excited to announce Newell Warren has joined joining ACI Mechanical & HVAC Sales as the newest Technical Director for all branches. His knowledge will provide support for any onsite issues.

Originally from Cornelius, Oregon, Newell gained his AOS from Universal Technical Institute – UTI of Avondale, Arizona. He made his way back to the Pacific Northwest starting his 24-year journey in the Commercial HVAC Service industry. After moving back to Oregon, he went on to become a general foreman HVAC service technician for a mechanical contractor. In that role he gained years of troubleshooting, service repair, preventive maintenance and estimating experience. This led him to a job as a HVAC Operations Director prior to joining ACI as our Corporate Technical Director. Newell has accomplished being a manager of service and construction-phase efforts on a variety of large jobs ranging from education, manufacturing and hospitality buildings making him the perfect fit for our industry.

"Newell's combined experience in wholesale distribution and as a Commercial Territory manager is a great addition for our customers," said Jessica Smith, Sales Manager of the Portland Branch. "Building working relationships based on trust, creating high-performing teams, and delivering top-notch service that exceeds client expectations is what drives me."

As the new Technical Director Newell will provide leadership skills, timely responses, accurate and up to date information, and employ his 30 years of construction knowledge to help problem solve for ACI.
